An unsolved double murder case plays out over decades in Season 3 of HBO's 'True Detective'

By George Dickie

The unsolved murder of two schoolchildren rocks an Arkansas community and haunts a detective over the course of decades as HBO's "True Detective" returns for a rather macabre third season this week.

As the new season opens Sunday, Jan.

Mahershala Ali and Carmen Ejogo star in Season 3 of "True Detective," beginning Sunday on HBO.

13, it's 2015 and retired West Finger, Ark., state police detective Wayne Hays (Oscar winner Mahershala Ali, "Moonlight") is asked to recall the details of the 1980 disappearance of two preteens for a true-crime documentary, a mystery that has deepened over the decades. The action then flashes back to the investigation that Hays and fellow detective Roland West (Stephen Dorff, "Somewhere") spearheaded with the help of local schoolteacher Amelia Reardon (Carmen Ejogo, "Born to Be Blue").

As the story plays out over three separate timelines — the 1980 crime, new developments in the case in 1990 and Hays' recollections in 2015 — we learn that Reardon turns out to be a key player in the original investigation, having been the children's teacher, and that she and Hays had become involved.

"Because of that position that she has in the community, she has access to people and information that even the detectives don't really have," the British actress explains. "So she becomes a very useful tool within the investigation. She then starts a relationship with Wayne and she also becomes a writer. She decides to write a sort of 'In Cold Blood'-type book about the community and how it's afected by this devastating crime. And as the show goes on, you realize that she is incredibly instrumental in helping to figure out what's happened."

Ejogo says she was originally attracted to the project after reading the script and learning that Ali wanted her for the role. She also credits series creator, writer and producer Nic Pizzolatto with making the character "an amazing female protagonist" and a "self-actualizing woman."

"She's somebody who, within a marriage and having become a mother, is also trying to sort of realize her own personal ambitions," Ejogo says, "and in the process of doing that she presents a really very interesting and complex and dimensional woman on screen."

But Amelia's growth, it turns out, is hard for her husband to take.

"I don't think I've seen very much on screen where you really start to watch the deterioration of a man, the emasculation even, perhaps, of a man, who is having to learn how to be with a woman that is growing in that way," Ejogo says.

"The show really is a meditation on what love is, on what is time, how did it affect people," she continues. "So it becomes clearer and clearer that for Wayne, as he gets older, Amelia is the per-

LOOKING BACK AND LOOKING AHEAD

Two-thousand-eighteen was an exciting and eventful year in Bayonne.

Throughout the year, there were numerous ground-breakings and ribbon-cuttings for residential, commercial, and industrial properties. Each event was a sign of Bayonne's rebirth.

On September 30, we experienced a visit from His Holiness Tawadros II, Pope of the Coptic Church. His Holiness celebrated the Eucharist and led other ceremonies at the Church of St. Anthony and St. Abanoub at the City Line. I was proud to lead a delegation of City officials at the church on that occasion.

On November 27, a double implosion took place at the former Military Ocean Terminal. Control Demolition toppled a large smokestack and a water tower to help make way for the construction of the Lincoln Equities logistics center. It is expected to provide about 2,700 jobs at full build-out.

During 2018, preparations continued for the arrival of ferry service to New York from the former Military Ocean Terminal. The City Council voted to designate SeaStreak as the operator of the ferry service. Right now, the City of Bayonne is negotiating details with the company.

In 2018, we completed the first phase of renovations at Mayor Dennis P. Collins Park on First Street. There will be more renovations there and at other parks throughout Bayonne.

Looking ahead to 2019, the City of Bayonne will be celebrating its 150th anniversary. Throughout the year, various events will have a Bayonne 150 theme. On March 9, we will hold a ceremony at the library to commemorate the passage of the state law that transformed Bayonne Township into the City of Bayonne in 1869.

During 2019, we will be collecting items to be considered for the Bayonne 150 time capsule. Any organizations or individuals who would like to submit an item for consideration should drop it off at the circulation desk at the Bayonne Free Public Library. There will be an event in April to welcome new portraits of former mayors and council presidents to the Council Chambers. A food truck festival will celebrate Bayonne 150 in May. Other Bayonne 150 events will be announced.

During 2019, we expect the completion of various residential and commercial buildings. We also foresee more construction getting underway, notably at the former Military Ocean Terminal.

On behalf of the City of Bayonne, I would like to wish everyone a happy, healthy, and prosperous new year in 2019!

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL Hope went into labor while waiting for Liam on Catalina Island. Liam desperately tried to get to Hope but was unable due to the storm conditions and high winds. The hotel manager helped Hope get to the clinic while Liam called his father to send a helicopter. Just as Hope's doctor assured her that everything would be OK, the power went out. Back in L.A. a thug took surveillance pictures of Zoe. Reese assured Hope that not only was he a licensed obstetrician, but also Zoe's dad. Reese looked down to see a threatening text from the thug — with Zoe's picture. The lives of the Forresters, Spencers, Avants, Spectras and Logans were changed profoundly. Wait to See: Long-time rivals come together for the sake of family.

HOLLYWOOD — Bradley Cooper — who rode the wave known as "A Star Is Born" ($400 million at movie box offices) and hit screens recently with Clint Eastwood in "The Mule" — will be heard but not seen as the voice of Rocket in "Avengers Endgame," due April 26. He'll go live again in a small role in "The Joker" (which he's co-producing), with Joaquin Phoenix and Robert DeNiro, out Oct. 4. Jared Leto played The Joker in "Suicide Squad" (2016), which made a whopping $747 million. Lucas Hedges, fast becoming the hottest actor in Hollywood because of films such as "Manchester By the Sea" (2016), for which he was Oscar nominated; "Lady Bird" (2017); "Three Billboards" (2017); the current hit "Boy Erased" (2018); and Amazon's "Ben Is Back" (2018), with Julia Roberts. Hedges completed "Honey Boy," written by and starring Shia LaBeouf (which screened at Sundance this month), and now is before the cameras filming the musical drama "Waves," with Sterling K. Brown. ***

The juggernaut known as Disney Studios is projected to break its 2016 worldwide box-office record of $7.6 billion. By mid-December it had already earned $7 billion, thanks to "Avengers: Infinity War," "Black Panther," "The Incredibles," "Ant-Man and The Wasp" and "Star Wars: The Last Jedi." "Ralph Breaks the Internet" and "Mary Poppins Returns" already are smashing box-office records. On April 26, Disney will serve up "Avengers Endgame," which undoubtedly will go through the roof (the trailer amassed 289 million views in its first 24 hours). The sequel to 2016's "Doctor Strange" (which grossed $677 million) will be directed by Scott Derrickson ("The Exorcism of Emily Rose"). "Doctor Strange" is based on the 1963 Marvel Comic "Strange Tales No. 110." Another venture by DC Comics, "Plastic Man," based on a 1941 comic book, is in preproduction for the big screen. Meanwhile, Keifer Sutherland and Helena Bonham Carter are lending their voices to the "Call of Duty: Black Ops 4" video game. ***

Two-time Oscar winner Jodie Foster — "The Accused" (1988) and "The Silence of the Lambs" (1991) — is taking on the English version of the Icelandic thriller/comedy "Iceland," now called "Women at War," as the director and star. Oscar, Emmy and three-time Golden Globe-winner Faye Dunaway will take on Katharine Hepburn in the former off-Broadway show "Tea at Five" (which originally starred Kate Mulgrew of "Star Trek: Voyager" fame) on Broadway next summer. "Network" (the film Faye won an Oscar for in 1976), on Broadway with Bryan Cranston, ends its run in April, before she gets there. Wonder if she'll have a catchphrase as Hepburn, as she did as Joan Crawford in "Mommie Dearest" (1991), when she uttered those immortal words ... "NO WIRE HANGERS!"

Mysterious red signals leave the crew baffled in Season 2 of 'Star Trek: Discovery'

By George Dickie

The push-pull of science versus faith is front and center of our politics and our society these days and it's also a recurring theme of Season 2 of "Star Trek: Discovery."

Beginning its second season Thursday, Jan. 17, on CBS All Access, the fresh batch of 14 episodes opens with the crew of the Discovery answering a distress call from the USS Enterprise. With that ship offline, its commander, Captain Christopher Pike (new cast member Anson Mount, "Hell on Wheels"), goes over to the Discovery and takes the lead on a mission to check out the source of seven mysterious red signals and the appearance of an entity known as the Red Angel.

As crew members work together to determine their origin and meaning, the Discovery's science specialist Michael Burnham (cast returnee Sonequa Martin-Green) is forced to face her past with the return of her estranged brother Spock (Ethan Peck, "10 Things I Hate About You").

"Pike automatically believes that there is a purpose behind them," Mount says of the red signals, "which is kind of a very big assumption, but he's a man who sometimes goes on faith. They seem to be appearing in coordination with one another, so the assumption then is that they're so far apart and they're appearing in coordination at faster than the speed of light that there has to be some purpose to them. ... And the energy that would be required to produce these occurrences, it has to do with a technology that is clearly so far beyond anything that we as a species understand, we might not even be able to recognize it. And so Pike is a man with a mission that is driving him so hard it could be almost unhealthy."

So while Pike argues that these signals are coming from a higher intelligence, Burnham, who is his new No. 2, voices a typically Vulcan opinion.

"She is the first one who says, 'You're operating on a very big assumption here, that these signals are intentional and not natural,'" Mount says. "And Pike not only accepts that argument, he likes that Burnham has the gumption to buck his assumptions. He needs that. He's smart enough and he's ego-less enough to recognize that he needs that in his operating system. So they quickly become peas in a pod because he wants somebody who is a good sounding board."

Anson Mount stars in "Star Trek: Discovery," which begins streaming its second season Thursday on CBS All Access.
