Amazon's tense psychodrama 'Homecoming' brings Julia Roberts to series TV

By George Dickie

It seems hard to believe that in her 30-plus years as a working actress, Julia Roberts has never been a regular on a TV series. But that changes this week when she headlines a tense psychological thriller debuting on Amazon.

Julia Roberts stars in "Homecoming," which begins streaming Friday on Amazon.

In "Homecoming," which begins streaming its 10-episode first season Friday, Nov. 2, the "Erin Brockovich" Oscar winner stars as Heidi Bergman, a case-worker working for her demanding boss Colin (Bobby Cannavale, "Boardwalk Empire") at the Homecoming Transitional Support Center, which helps soldiers transition back to civilian life.

One of those is Walter Cruz (Stephan James, "Shots Fired"), a seemingly normal Gulf War vet who's eager to begin treatment and get back to his life state-side. Others such as Shrier (Jeremy Allen White, "Shameless") aren't so trusting of the corporate-owned facility's motives and resist treatment every step of the way.

Flash forward four years and it's apparent something has hit the fan. Heidi has moved back home to live with her mother (Oscar winner Sissy Spacek, "Coal Miner's Daughter") and work for low pay as a waitress, while Walter is nowhere to be seen. And when a Defense Department investigator (Shea Whigham, "American Hustle") comes around asking questions, Heidi isn't talking.

The half-hour series is based on the popular podcast of the same title by Gimlet Media and boasts a creative team that includes Sam Esmail, the man behind the USA Network sci-fi drama "Mr. Robot."

"Well, honestly ... Sam Esmail is what attracted me," Roberts told a recent gathering of journalists in Beverly Hills, Calif. "And I just think that what Eli (Horowitz) and Micah (Bloomberg) have written is such a great sort of old-fashioned yarn set in this really modern conundrum of a morality play. And to put that in Sam's incredibly stylish, capable hands, seemed a very safe place to be."

Like "Mr. Robot," the idea of the evil corporation permeates "Homecoming," and is evident when Shrier spits out his medication at dinnertime or tries to convince Walter that the vets have all have been duped into believing the facility is located near Tampa.

And that level of distrust, says Esmail, is merely art imitating life.

"I do think that there is something in the air about corporate greed and especially since the 2008 financial collapse, we're still reeling from that," he says. "I mean like how many ... of the perpetrators of that actually got arrested or jailed? I mean, I can count on one hand. And it's actually probably to that point, none."

"So ... I don't want to say that all corporations are the villains," he continues, "but there is that untrustworthiness right now with capitalism in general, but corporations, especially large corporations

HALLOWEEN SAFETY TIPS

Mayor Jimmy Davis advised residents that a statewide effort is underway to make Halloween 2018 a safe one. Mayor Davis said, "Halloween is coming on Wednesday, October 31. The North Jersey Transportation and several other public agencies recognize that Halloween can be a dangerous night for children walking on dark roadways across the country. They have launched the Street Smart NJ campaign to make the public aware of ways of staying safe during Halloween."

Here are some tips from Street Smart NJ:

Tips for everyone with cell phones: Remember, heads up, phones down, whether you are operating a vehicle or crossing the road.

Tips for pedestrians: Make sure that costumes don't impair your child's ability to walk or see. Safety experts warn against wearing masks that can limit visibility.

Before crossing a street, look left, right, and then left again. Use sidewalks. When there are no sidewalks, walk next to the street while facing traffic.

Be visible. Parents should add reflective tape to costumes or make sure that children carry a light or a glow stick to ensure that vehicles can see them at night. Be seen on Halloween.

Use crosswalks. Wait for the walk signal. Avoid distractions. Don't use electronic devices while crossing. Cross at corners and intersections and use marked crosswalks whenever possible. Do not cross between parked cars, because it makes it difficult for motorists to see you.

Tips for drivers: Obey the speed limit. The AAA suggests driving five miles per hour below the posted speed limit on Halloween.

Stop for pedestrians. New Jersey law requires motorists to stop for pedestrians in crosswalks. Violations of the law carry a $200 fine and two points on your license.

Don't drive distracted. Don't use electronic devices while driving. New Jersey prohibits talking and texting while driving. Fines range from $200 for first-time offenders to as much as $800 for repeat offenders.

Drive sober. On Halloween night between 2009 and 2013, 119 people were killed by drunk driving, according to the National Highway Traffic Administration.

Don't turn on red without looking for pedestrians.

Mayor Davis concluded, "If everyone follows these tips, Halloween 2018 will be a safe and enjoyable time. Please be careful as you travel around our community on Halloween."

HOLLYWOOD

By Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Two-time "Braveheart" Oscar-winner Mel Gibson (for best picture and director), now forgiven for all past transgressions, will co-write, produce and star in a remake of "The Wild Bunch." The original starred William Holden, Ernest Borgnine, Robert Ryan, Edmund O'Brian, Warren Oates and Ben Johnson. I can't wait to see how they cast this one. But before that, Gibson will be seen in "War Pigs," with Colin Farrell, and helm the war drama "Destroyer," reportedly with buddy Mark Wahlberg. Wahlberg hits screens Nov. 16 in "Instant Family," with Rose Byrne, Octavia Spencer, Margo Martindale and Tig Notaro.

Disney darling Lin-Manuel Miranda hits screens Dec. 19 in "Mary Poppins Returns" as Jack the lamplighter, former apprentice of Bert, played by Dick Van Dyke in the original. Van Dyke, who also played Mr. Dawes Sr., now is playing his own son, Dawes Jr., in the sequel. Also starring are Meryl Streep as Topsy, Angela Lansbury as The Balloon Lady and, of course, Emily Blunt as Mary Poppins. Miranda is currently filming the fantasy adventure "His Dark Materials," with James McAvoy and Ruth Wilson.

The smash Broadway musical "Cats" is headed for the big screen with "Dreamgirls" Oscar-winner Jennifer Hudson, pop star Taylor Swift, talk-show host James Cordon and Sir Ian McKellen. "Les Miserables" director Tom Hooper will direct for a December 2019 opening. Meanwhile, Cameron Crowe's Oscar-winning screenplay "Almost Famous" is being adapted into a musical for Broadway, while the London musicalized version of "Network," which starred Michelle Dockery in London, also is headed for Broadway (opening Dec. 6). Bryan Cranston and "Orphan Black" star Tatiana Maslany will take on the roles that won Oscars for Peter Finch and Faye Dunaway.

Joaquin Phoenix, currently on screens in "The Sisters Brothers," with Jake Gyllenhaal and John C. Reilly, and awaiting "Mary Magdalene," in which he plays Jesus (delayed by the Weinstein Company mess), is going very dark as "The Joker," playing a failed stand-up comedian/talk-show host during the 1980s who turns to a life of crime. Robert De Niro co-stars. If the plot sounds familiar, and ironic, De Niro starred in "The King of Comedy" (1982) as Rupert Pupkin, an autograph hound and mentally deranged aspiring stand-up comic who kidnaps a talk-show host, played by Jerry Lewis.

De Niro has reteamed with his "Goodfellas" (1990) co-stars Al Pacino and Joe Pesci in director Martin Scorsese's Netflix film "The Irishman," premiering in 2019. Andrew Dice Clay has been bragging that he beat out both Robert De Niro and John Travolta for the role he has in the current release of "A Star Is Born," with Lady Gaga and Bradley Cooper. Don't know how De Niro will react, but in the good old days those were considered fighting words. Andrew Dice Clay should know better than take on "The Raging Bull."
