THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On Dec. 10, 1768, the first part of the first edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, the oldest continuously published and revised work in the English language, was published and advertised for sale in Edinburgh, Scotland.
- On Dec. 8, 1854, Pope Pius IX proclaimed the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception, in which he asserted that Mary, the mother of Jesus, was from the moment of her conception free from the effects of "original sin."
- On Dec. 9, 1868, the world's first traffic light was erected near Westminster Bridge in London. It didn't have much of a chance to prove its worth, however, as it had to be removed just a month later following a gas leak that caused one of its lights to explode.
- On Dec. 6, 1933, U.S. federal judge John M. Woolsey announced that James Joyce's novel "Ulysses" was not obscene in a legal sense but a work of merit. The ruling was hailed as a landmark and would open the door for greater freedoms in future literary works.

- On Dec. 5, 1955, the Georgia board of regents rejected Gov. Marvin Griffin's request that the Georgia Tech football team be barred from playing in the following month's Sugar Bowl simply because the school's opponent, the University of Pittsburgh, included a Black athlete.
- On Dec. 11, 1981, after an extraordinary 21-year career in the ring and despite pleas that it was time for him to definitively retire, American boxer Muhammad Ali fought his last professional bout, losing to Trevor Berbick in a match that would be nicknamed "Drama in the Bahamas."
- On Dec. 7, 2020, American aviator Chuck Yeager, who in 1947 became the first person to exceed the speed of sound in flight, which was approximately 662 miles per hour at his altitude of 40,000 feet, died at the age of 97.

1. Which artist wrote and released "Heart of Gold" in 1972?
2. Who released "Blue on Blue"?
3. Which duo released "The Look"?
4. Name the group that released "I Want It All."
5. Name the song that contains these lyrics: "I wish I could carry your smile in my heart, For times when my life seems so low."

1. Neil Young. He not only put aside the electric guitar for this one (opting for only the acoustic), he also had Linda Ronstadt and James Taylor singing backup.
2. Bobby Vinton, in 1963. The song was on his album of the same name, all songs having a "blue" theme, such as "Blueberry Hill" and "Mr. Blue."
3. Roxette, in 1989. It was written by Per Gessle while he was learning how to use a synthesizer. He came up with lyrics to be used as mental placeholders as he mastered the synthesizer.
4. Queen, in 1989. There are three versions of the song. The album, the single and the compilation all used different instruments.
5. "All Out of Love," by Air Supply in 1980. The song relates the efforts of a man to win back his lady love after he's hurt her.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Lucie Winborne

- Finnish Ph.D. students graduate in style! Along with their hard-earned diploma, they receive a sword and top hat.
- Cherophobia is the fear of being happy.
- Within a week of stealing 16 statues from an Indian Hindu temple, the thieves responsible believed their subsequent nightmares and bad luck were a direct result and brought back some of the property with a note asking for forgiveness — but still held on to two of the statues anyway.

- Baby elephants suck their trunks for comfort.
- Do you like tequila? Thank a bat. Seriously. Bats are the main pollinators of the agave plant, which is the key ingredient in tequila. No bats, no agave, no tequila!
- If Michael Phelps were a country, he'd rank No. 35 on the all-time Olympic gold medal list, ahead of 97 countries.

- On Jan. 20, 2022, a U.S. hacker managed to bring down North Korea's entire internet. In addition, he performed this feat in great comfort, while wearing his pajama pants, watching "Aliens" and munching on spicy corn snacks.
- James Cameron came close to casting O.J. Simpson as the Terminator, but ultimately decided the athlete was "too pleasant" to portray the character.
- If you attended the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, perhaps you participated in a Thanksgiving tradition known as Frozen Turkey Bowling. And yes, it's essentially what it sounds like: A bunch of folks hurling oiled frozen turkeys down a grocery store aisle at a set of bowling pins. Strange? Sure, but it raises money to combat smoking, so we're on board.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS BY AMY ANDERSON

"Don't Worry Darling" (R) — Olivia Wilde's second directorial project was a hot topic during its premiere at the 79th Venice International Film Festival in September, as social media swarmed with memes about the project's messy inception. The film, starring Harry Styles ("Dunkirk") and Florence Pugh ("Midsommar"), follows a couple, Jack and Alice, who seemingly have the perfect marriage in the utopian company town of Victory. Every day follows the same formula, with Alice sending her husband off to work and taking care of all the household duties until their romantic reunions in the evening. But when Alice begins to experience jarring interruptions in her schedule, she has a growing hunch that nothing in Victory is what it seems. Out now. (HBO Max)

"Drink Masters" (TV-MA) — Who doesn't love food-based reality competitions? From "Cake Wars" to "The American Barbecue Showdown," there's something out there for everyone's food palette. But did everyone just forget about the drinks? Well, for those who like to end their days with a fun cocktail or enjoy an adult beverage to pair their meal with, Netflix presents "Drink Masters," out now. In this series, an array of bartenders from around the world face off in exciting challenges to earn the grand prize of $100,000 and become "The Ultimate Drink

Kate Gerwin competes under the watchful eye of judge Frankie Solarik in "Drink Masters."

Master." So, pour yourself a drink, sit back and relax as you watch these mixologists put their skills to the test. (Netflix)

"Nope" (R) — One of the most promising film releases of this year is now available to stream. Directed by Jordan Peele ("Get Out" and "Us"), this sci-fi horror film takes place on the Haywood family ranch, where siblings OJ ("Daniel Kaluuya") and Em ("Keke Palmer") raise horses that are used in film and TV. Shortly after their father's death, OJ and Em start experiencing power outages, with their horses reacting wildly to a mysterious object floating through the night sky. Once they realize that this object has the power to vacuum up anything in sight, the Haywoods deem it a UFO and hatch a plan to document proof — if they can out-manuever it to survive, that is. Peele is quickly building himself a respectable and memorable resume of films. You don't want to skip this one; it'll really stick with you. (Peacock)

"Marry Me" (PG-13) — Released earlier this year, this rom-com starring Jennifer Lopez and Owen Wilson is a movie that I had honestly dreaded watching. Produced by Lopez's own production company, it follows a caricature of who Lopez is in real life, a superstar singer and dancer named Kat Valdez. Kat plans to marry her male counterpart in the industry, Bastian (Maluma), on stage during a concert, until she sees a leaked video of Bastian's infidelity right before. In what can be described only as the most emotional reaction ever, she picks an audience member out from the crowd and decides to marry him instead. If you can brush past the lack of believability, the heart of this movie isn't half-bad. (Prime Video)

Q: Who is the actress playing Princess Diana in the current season of “The Crown”? I know she’s different than the actor who played her the last two seasons. Both have done a fantastic job. — L.L.

A: Elizabeth Debicki, who is Australian, began playing Princess Diana in season five of the Netflix series “The Crown,” opposite Dominic West as Prince Charles. Debicki is a statuesque 6 feet, 3 inches tall, and with her big blue eyes, she physically inhabits the tragic character of the Princess of Wales.

Debicki’s first big role was a supporting one in Baz Luhrmann’s “The Great Gatsby,” starring Leonardo DiCaprio. In 2016, she starred alongside Tom Hiddleston and Hugh Laurie in the British miniseries “The Night Manager,” and before landing “The Crown,” she starred in acclaimed director Christopher Nolan’s twisty thriller “Tenet.”

Emma Corrin, who is British and whose pronouns are they/they, portrayed Diana in season four of “The Crown” and was nominated for an Emmy. They’re only 26, but their career has taken off quickly. Corrin played Esme in the first season of the HBO Max series “Pennyworth,” which is the origin story of Batman’s butler, and they can also be seen in “My Policeman,” a recent film starring Harry Styles.

Elizabeth Debicki (“The Crown” and “Tenet”)

Q: Is the new movie directed by Steven Spielberg about his own life? Also, how many Oscars has he won as director? — S.P.

A: Steven Spielberg, one of America’s greatest directors, recently told Lesley Stahl on “60 Minutes” that every one of his movies is a personal movie. However, he admits that his new film, “The Fabelmans,” is semi-autobiographical. It’s about a boy, like him, who was obsessed with making movies and whose mismatched parents di-voice when he’s a teenager. Paul Dano plays the engineer dad in the movie and Michelle Williams his free-spirit mom, and their respective personalities mirror Spielberg’s own parents.

Spielberg has two Academy Awards as director for “Saving Private Ryan” and “Schindler’s List,” both released in the 1990s. He has a slew of nominations, however, the most recent of which was “West Side Story” earlier this year, but he lost to Jane Campion for “Power of the Dog.”

Q: When is the Elizabeth Holmes film coming out starring Jennifer Lawrence? I know she had a baby recently. Did she finish filming already? — P.N.

A: Jennifer Lawrence’s career has slowed down the past few years, but for good reason. She fell in love and married Cooke Maroney, an art gallery owner, and gave birth to their son, Cy, earlier this year. Professionally, she was working on perfecting the deep voice necessary to play fallen tech tycoon Elizabeth Holmes in an upcoming film “Bad Blood,” directed by Adam McKay.

However, Lawrence recently announced she’s exited the project after seeing how well Amanda Seyfried did in the same role for “The Dropout,” a limited series on Hulu. Seyfried won an Emmy for her portrayal as well, and Lawrence felt “we don’t need to redo that.” It’s uncertain whether the role will be recast or if the project has been scrapped.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Henry Cavill has left the Netflix series “The Witcher,” for the new four-part spy film franchise “Argylle,” with Sam Rockwell, Bryce Dallas Howard, John Cena and Samuel L. Jackson. Cavill will also star in director Guy Ritchie and producer Jerry Bruckheimer’s next film “The Ministry of Ungentlemanly Warfare” (opposite “Baby Driver’s” Eiza Gonzalez), which charts Winston Churchill’s and “James Bond” creator Ian Fleming’s secret WWII combat organization. “Enola Holmes 2” also hit Netflix recently, and Cavill will be back to play Superman again.

“12 Years a Slave” Oscar winner Lupita Nyong’o, currently headlining “Black Panther: Wakanda Forever,” has found “A Quiet Place” for her next film. Considered a spin-off, not a sequel to “A Quiet Place” and “A Quiet Place 2,” “A Quiet Place: Day One,” is based on an idea from creator, star and director of “A Quiet Place” John Krasinski — who won’t be starring in it when it opens in March 2024.

“The Fabulous Four” — Susan Sarandon, Bette Midler, Sissy Spacek and Megan Mul-

lally — are lifelong friends who reunite in Key West for Midler’s wedding. Aussie director Jocelyn Moorhouse begins shooting next year in her home. Spacek currently stars with Dustin Hoffman in “Sam & Kate.”

International film superstar Catherine Deneuve (age 79) is best remembered for “The Umbrellas of Cherbourg” (1964), Roman Polanski’s “Repulsion” (1965) and “Viva Maria!” (1965), with George Hamilton and French mega-superstar Brigitte Bardot. Even though she’s never stopped working in her native home of France, she’s making an international comeback in “Bernadette” as former French first lady Bernadette Chirac, wife of 1995 French president Jacques Chirac. I met Deneuve when she and Bardot toured 26 theaters in New York with “Viva Maria!” in 1965. They attracted mob scenes, and people were fainting and going mad over her and Bardot who, despite being French movie stars, commanded crowds equal to Liz Taylor and Richard Burton.

Also making a comeback is Shelley Duvall, who won two Emmys, a British Academy Award, a Peabody and a top prize at the Cannes Film Festival. Duvall was unforgettable in two 1980 classics (Wendy in “The Shining” and Olive Oyl in “Popeye”). Now 73, she’s been absent since 2002, and her last film was “Manna from Heaven,” with Shirley Jones, Louise Fletcher and Cloris Leachman. In 2016, a talk show host who calls himself “Dr.” did a hatchet job interviewing her. But in 2021, when the Hollywood Reporter profiled her in “Searching for Shelley Duvall,” it created renewed interest in her career.

After she completed her comeback werewolf film “The Forest Hills,” Duvall admitted, “It was a lot of fun, and I’m excited to be back!” The times I parted with her, she was sweet and funny. Guess werewolves like Olive Oyl, too?

The store will be open on those selected Sundays from 11 am to 4 pm. Come to Aaron's Gold for all your holiday needs; even Santa's elves can't make something as beautiful as Aaron's.

SUPPORT OUR LOCAL SMALL BUSINESSES

As we begin the holiday season, I would like to remind all residents to shop and eat in Bayonne during the coming weeks and throughout the year. Our small businesses are the backbone of our local economy. Every time you make a purchase at a local store or eat at a local restaurant, you are supporting local businesses and jobs. Small businesses are located on major avenues, side streets, Route 440, and the former Military Ocean Terminal. We have restaurants that offer dishes from Europe, Latin America, East Asia, South Asia, the Middle East, and the United States. Why not try a new restaurant to celebrate the holiday season?

Whether you are shopping for Christmas, Chanukah, Kwanzaa, New Year's Eve, or New Year's Day, local businesses will appreciate your trade. Remember that many businesses in Bayonne belong to our Urban Enterprise Zone (UEZ). UEZ-affiliated businesses can offer qualified goods at a discounted sales tax.

About 60 million Americans are employed by small businesses. That amounts to about half of the private sector workforce. Small businesses provide jobs to numerous Bayonne residents. Many of those businesses support local charities, community groups, sports teams, school programs, and children's activities. They give back to the Bayonne community. Show them your appreciation for their generosity by giving them your business whenever you can.

November 26 was Small Business Saturday. In advance of that day, I visited several businesses in all three of Bayonne's wards with City Council Members and Jackie Farber, Coordinator of Bayonne's Urban Enterprise Zone (UEZ). We wanted to show that Bayonne has a great variety of small businesses throughout our community.

According to the federal Small Business Administration (SBA), "Founded by American Express in 2010 and officially cosponsored by SBA since 2011, Small Business Saturday has become an important part of small businesses' busiest shopping season. Historically, reported projected spending among U.S. consumers who shopped at independent retailers and restaurants on Small Business Saturday reached an estimated $23.3 billion according to the 2021 Small Business Saturday Consumer Insights Survey commissioned by American Express."

Many local enterprises endured significant losses during the height of the COVID pandemic. They would all appreciate your support as they continue to recover during these challenging times. Thanks for buying locally in 2022. Please continue to do that as we look forward to 2023. Happy shopping in Bayonne this holiday season!

Plan Now for the Cost of a New Pet

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: As the holiday season approaches, many people are thinking about adopting or purchasing a pet as a gift. Can you remind readers that the cost of owning a pet can be quite high? Unexpected pet care expenses are one reason that pets wind up at shelters after the holidays. — Carl W., Indianapolis

DEAR CARL: You brought up this issue at the perfect time, as many families start thinking about and committing to getting a pet for Christmas. Potential owners have a lot of things to think about and discuss, and one big item is the cost of owning a pet.

Bringing home a cat or dog from the shelter can cost $1,200 to $1,800, a Geico Living post reports. Adoption fees, the initial vet visit and supplies are part of the upfront costs. Smaller pets like hamsters and goldfish will cost about $200 initially when a tank, cage and supplies are factored in.

Then there's the cost of continuing care. A cat will cost at least $800 per year in litter, food, toys, medical care and more. Dogs can cost $1,500 per year or more, and if a professional trainer is needed, that adds to the cost. And if your pet gets sick, veterinary bills can be quite expensive.

This is not to talk people out of owning a pet, but to make them aware that a pet will impact the household budget more than most new owners expect. Know the upfront cost of a new pet. Budget for the monthly and annual costs of keeping a pet healthy and happy. Minimize financial surprises, and you can focus fully on your pet's well-being.

Cutting back perennials

When it comes to perennials, don't cut them back until after several hard frosts. The roots are still reclaiming energy for healthy growth in the spring, and the decomposing leaves insulate the plant during freezes and thaws and provide fertilizer for spring growth. Leave seed-heads standing to feed the birds in cold weather. However, you should remove dead foliage containing pests or disease.

WOLFGANG PUCK'S KITCHEN

Homemade for the holidays: Give a gift of cookies all season long

By Wolfgang Puck

I recently shared some memories centered on my love baking holiday cookies, along with an easy recipe for peanut butter cookies. But, from early childhood, I learned one very important rule on this subject from my mother and grandmother: One kind of cookie alone is never enough at the holidays.

That's why, while there's still plenty of time to get all of your baking done before the arrival of Christmas and Hanukkah, which begins this year the same day as Christmas Eve, I would like to offer another delicious, easy-to-make cookie recipe. This one also fulfills another important requirement of holiday sweet offerings, in that it features rich chocolate flavor.

I love to include some chocolate among the treats I prepare for the festive season. It is, after all, my favorite sweet flavor. And these little cookies deliver big, intense hits of chocolate, flavored as they are not only with cocoa powder but also bittersweet chocolate. Be sure to use a good-quality chocolate, including European brands like Valrhona from France or Callebaut from Belgium; a premium American make like Scharffen Berger; or one of the many other boutique labels you can find today in gourmet markets and specialty food shops.

The cookie dough itself is easy to mix, especially if you have a stand mixer. But you could also put it together with a good, sturdy hand-held electric mixer. Chilling the dough after you form it into balls is essential to help you get the firm yet crumbly texture that I like so much about these cookies.

Another big part of the cookies' appeal is the thumbprint in each one. Children love to help shape them, too. Just before you serve the cookies is the time to fill those indentations with jam. (Any sooner, and the moisture in the jam could turn the cookies soggy.) I like to use raspberry jam, but any other flavor that you think goes with chocolate - apricot, cherry, orange marmalade - would also make an excellent choice.

If you want extra-chocolaty cookies, fill them with chocolate ganache instead of the jam. Just put 3/4 pound (375 g) of chopped bittersweet chocolate in a heatproof bowl, pour 1 cup (250 mL) of hot heavy cream over the chocolate, let it rest for a couple of minutes, and then whisk until smooth and shiny. Let the ganache cool slightly before filling the cookies. (Or use your favorite jar of chocolate-nut spread from the supermarket instead.)

Pack airtight tins with an assortment of these cookies, along with any other home-baked cookies you like, and you'll have holiday gifts well worth giving and happily received!

BITTERSWEET CHOCOLATE-RASPBERRY THUMBPRINT COOKIES

Makes about 6 dozen

3 cups (750 mL) plus 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/4 cup (60 mL) unsweetened cocoa powder
1/4 teaspoon kosher salt
4 ounces (125 g) bittersweet chocolate, cut into small pieces
3/4 pound (375 g) unsalted butter (3 sticks), at room temperature, cut into small pieces
1 1/3 cups (330 mL) confectioners' sugar, sifted
2 large cage-free egg yolks
Raspberry jam
Line one or two baking sheets with parchment paper and set aside.

Into a mixing bowl, sift the flour, cocoa powder and salt. Set aside.

In a small heatproof bowl set over a pan of simmering water, melt the chocolate pieces. When almost melted, turn off the heat and leave it to melt completely, stirring occasionally.

In the large bowl of an electric stand mixer fitted with a paddle or beaters, beat together the butter and confectioners' sugar, starting on low speed until the sugar is fully incorporated. Then turn the speed to high and continuing to beat until the mixture turns very fluffy and white, about 5 minutes. Stop the machine occasionally, as needed, and scrape down the sides of the bowl and under the beaters with a rubber spatula, to ensure even blending.

On medium speed, add the egg yolks one at a time, beating just until combined. Add the melted chocolate and mix well on medium speed. Reduce the speed to low and slowly pour in the sifted ingredients, beating just until incorporated. Do not overmix.

Remove the bowl from the mixer. With clean hands, form the dough into small balls about 1 generous tablespoon each. Place each ball on the lined baking sheet, spacing them about 2 inches (5 cm) apart, then gently press a thumb into each ball to make a deep indentation in the center. Cover loosely with parchment paper or plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 2 hours or as long as overnight to help keep the indentations intact.

Before baking, position the oven rack in the center. Preheat the oven to 350 F (175 C).

Bake the cookies for about 12 minutes, rotating the baking sheet or sheets back to front halfway through. Transfer to a wire rack to cool. If using only one baking sheet, leave it to cool before putting more cookies on it.
