TV PIPELINE

By Jay Bobbin

Q: Katy Perry seems very precise with her judging on "American Idol." Has she ever done anything like this before? — Judy Acres, via e-mail

A: Actually, she has, though American audiences might not know one of the instances. Her stint was brief, but she was a guest judge on the original British version of the seventh season of "The X Factor" in 2010. Among those she sat beside was that show's creator, Simon Cowell ... who, of course, was one of the original "Idol" judges.

Katy Perry

The same year, Perry also was with Cowell as a guest judge on the original Fox incarnation of "Idol" for a couple of episodes during the show's ninth season (the one that involved contestant Katie Stevens, now a star of the Freeform drama "The Bold Type").

Q: Does Tyler Henry of "Hollywood Medium" do private readings for non-celebrities? — Shannon Saltz-Hensley, Kingman, Ariz.

A: He does, and there is an online application form at his website ... www.tylerhenryhollywoodmedium.com/private-reading. However, be aware that it could take some time to receive a reply, since the top of that form states the following: "Your inquiry will be received and responded to as we go down the list. Please understand that with the increased shooting schedule of 'Hollywood Medium,' it may take a while to get back to you."

Q: With the returns of so many shows, why have they decided not to run the '70s show "Starsky & Hutch"? — Dee Sonoga, Youngstown, Ohio

A: We can't speak for each one of the "they" you reference, but for now, we would suggest this. One outlet you might want to keep an eye on is Decades, which has run weekend marathons of other Aaron Spelling-produced '70s cop shows — namely, "Vega$" and "The Rookies" — in recent times. We'd be surprised if they don't have their eyes on "Starsky & Hutch," which starred Paul Michael Glaser and David Soul, too.

We'll also add that the complete series is available in a DVD set, but an on-air comeback for the show might be even more viable around the time that a remake being planned for Amazon debuts. That's being overseen by James Gunn, the director of the "Guardians of the Galaxy" movies, but it's in the very early stages and no premiere date has been set.

Starz's 'Howards End' brings E.M. Forster's masterpiece to life

By George Dickie

E.M. Forster's tale of class, code of conduct and relationships in turn-of-the-century London gets a lush retelling in a four-part drama debuting this week on Starz.

"Howards End," premiering Sunday, April 8, follows the adventures of Margaret (Hayley Atwell, "Agent Carter") and Helen Schlegel (Philippa Coulthard, "The Catch"), two intelligent and idealistic middle class sisters trying to lead independent lives following the deaths of their parents, a pursuit made more challenging by the presence of their hypochondriac brother Tibby (Alex Lawther, "The Imitation Game") and the meddling of their overbearing Aunt Juley (Tracey Ullman, "The Tracey Ullman Show").

While on vacation, Margaret befriends the rich, conservative Wilcox family and forms a bond with its matriarch, Ruth (Julia Ormond, "Mad Men"). When Ruth suddenly dies, Margaret finds herself attracted to her widower, Henry (Matthew Macfadyen, "Ripper Street"), a successful businessman who inherits his late wife's country estate Howards End.

Helen, meanwhile, goes downwardly mobile by taking up the cause of Leonard Bast (Joseph Quinn, "Game of Thrones"), a struggling bank clerk trapped into marrying his ailing lover Jacky (Rosalind Eleazar, "National Treasure").

The story was adapted by screenwriter Kenneth Lonergan, who won an Oscar last year for "Manchester by the Sea," which was a big selling point for Atwell.

"The part of Margaret Schlegel felt very grown up, very sophisticated," the British actress explains. "It has a wit to it that was appealing. But the main thing was the fact that this was going to be adapted by Ken Lonergan. I've just seen him do 'Manchester by the Sea' and you think 'How can someone like that then go on to adapt something like this?'"

"And I thought that was interesting," she continues, "and I thought he's going to have a fresh take on it and it won't be mannered and it won't be stilted and it won't be melodramatic. It will have air to it, it will have lightness of touch to it. It will have irony. It will have wit. It will have warmth. It will also be very moving in how unsentimental it is."

As for Macfadyen, he was ready to move on from period dramas after four years of doing BBC's "Ripper Street," but he said Lonergan's script and the character of Henry drew him in.

"Henry's a catalyst," the British actor says. "He's a sort of man of action in the sense that he's not terribly introspective. He's a fairly conservative, pragmatic man with a fairly fixed view. He's a man of his time like men of that period — fairly fixed, rigid views on class and gender and the way the world works."

"And also it's interesting as an actor, Henry would have thought of himself as a terribly modern man," he continues. "He's on the cutting edge of industry ... The last thing he would have thought of himself was old-fashioned or stuck in the mud."

Matthew Macfadyen and Hayley Atwell star in "Howards End," a four-part drama series premiering Sunday on Starz.

Yi Sushi Go - A Brand New Sushi Shop is now opened for business at 266 Broadway between 11th and 12th streets in Bayonne, NJ. It provides its customers with ample parking and easy access to a delightfully decorated and sparkling clean establishment! Fresh sushi is displayed for you in an impressive quantity and quality in an immaculate display case. The fish, seafood and vegetables that comprise these offerings will make your mouth water! You can purchase right from the display case or place your order and sample their tea of the day while you wait. The customer will be pleasantly surprised to see a unique feature as they enter and browse: an open kitchen, where you have a view of the chefs preparing your foods. Brown rice tea was available when this writer came by for a visit. There are three tables available for customers to sit and relax with a view of Broadway.

The business is named for its owner and head chef, Yi (Yi is a nickname). The manager of the store is his efficient and confident wife, Zara Wang, who holds a B.A. degree in International Business. This couple is living the "American Dream" raising two charming daughters and realizing the materialization of their passion to serve. They are devoted to working diligently toward improving their business and providing their customers with the very best in quality food. The story of Yi is quite impressive. Many residents know the head chef from his service of the Sushi Bar at ShopRite in midtown Bayonne. He was originally asked by the owner to open a small sushi bar and agreed to the idea. The sushi bar opened in November 2009. It started with two workers and was so well received that is soon expanded to five workers. Zara talks about her husband with great respect as she tells his story and shares his ideas and goals. Yi worked for ShopRite for many years and before that, he worked for eighteen (18) years in some of the finest restaurants in Las Vegas, Nevada and on the upper east side of Manhattan. He had a dream that one day he would open his own sushi business and make a fine sushi product available and affordable to the average person and working people whose budgets were not as extravagant as wealthy people. He sincerely wants to offer all his customers cuisine what will meet all their needs. Are you a Vegan? Are you Diabetic? Are you dieting? Do you have special needs? Tell Yi Sushi Go and they will accommodate you. Were you under the impression that all sushi is raw fish? Well, ladies and gents, that is a false impres-could order? Your prayers and wishes have been answered at Yi Sushi Go!!! Bottled health drinks, fruit drinks, Fiji water, ginger beverages are available! Mochi sherbets, ice cream and bon-bons, packaged teas, white coffee and organic beverages and other assorted beverages

It's spy vs. assassin in BBC America's 'Killing Eve'

By George Dickie

Villanelle and Eve are two women with a passion for murder, one committing it and the other investigating it. Their fates become inexorably intertwined in a thriller series debuting this week on BBC America.

In "Killing Eve," premiering Sunday, April 8, Jodie Comer ("The White Princess," "Rillington Place") stars as Villanelle, a paid assassin who happens to be very good at her job. She's an understated beauty with an innocent look and a burning appetite to kill.

She comes to the attention of Eve Polastri (Sandra Oh, "Grey's Anatomy," "Sideways"), a security officer with the MI5 in London, following a successful hit on a Russian politician in Vienna. Though she is happily married to math teacher Nico (Owen McDonnell, "My Mother and Other Strangers") and has a good life, Eve is unsatisfied with her work, feeling that by now she should be chasing assassins around the globe. And in the mysterious Villanelle, she has found her quarry.

What follows is an epic game of cat and mouse played by two women who are obsessed with each other and their jobs. That's especially true of Villanelle, who derives obvious pleasure from her hits.

"It really does sound terrible," admits Comer to a recent gathering of journalists in Pasadena, Calif., "but it was impossible not to like Villanelle. She loves her job, first of all. She's actually very good at her job as well, and she's very clever.

"And the kills that she does, you know, when you watch the series throughout, and she thinks a lot about the kills, and she plans, and she is very particular and very clever and very artistic, I feel, but she gets away with murder, quite literally, and it was just so fun. She's such a free character, and I've realized that the more I run with her throughout the series, the more liberating it was."

In Eve, Oh plays a frustrated spy whose boredom often leads to laziness but who nonetheless possesses a dogged determination to solve crimes.

"(What) I'm so interested (in) with Eve, is her frazzledness," Oh says, "how she doesn't have things under control, and that she has — that you see her, even the first two episodes, how she's quite insecure and how she has not found her voice, and that's really what initially gravitated me towards this project. ... It's a lot of hard work and a lot of fun."

Sandra Oh stars in "Killing Eve," premiering Sunday on BBC America.

Mayor Davis, Joined by Senators Menendez and Booker, to Announce Agreement of Sale for 94 Waterfront Acres on MOTBY Site

Real Estate Firm will develop 1.6 million square feet of next generation warehouse space, creating thousands of jobs

Mayor Jimmy Davis was joined today by U.S. Senators Bob Menendez and Cory Booker to announce that the owner of a major parcel of land on the former Military Ocean Terminal (MOTBY) has agreed to sell the site to a local real estate firm as part of its plan to develop a significant area of the MOTBY peninsula. Highstar Capital, the site's current owner, and East Rutherford-based Lincoln Equities Group, the purchaser, have entered into a purchase and sale agreement for the parcel on the northern side of MOTBY. In negotiating the agreement, Highstar Capital worked with Ports America Group, the current manager of the site. The closing of the sale is anticipated for May 2018.

Lincoln Equities Group plans to construct up to 1.6 million square feet of modern "next generation" industrial warehouse space on the property, continuing the growth of the Hudson County waterfront and the redevelopment of those areas located in Bayonne. The redevelopment will provide new waterfront facilities to facilitate trade in the Port of New York and New Jersey, and will result in upwards of 2,700 permanent, new jobs for the State of New Jersey.

"We look forward to working with Lincoln Equities Group as they transform this area of MOTBY, creating jobs and fueling the city, county, and state economies," Mayor Davis said. "Redeveloping this area has long been part of our plan to restore jobs to Bayonne."

Mayor Davis added that the City is excited that the revitalization of the site will once again help fuel Bayonne's economic engine. He cited recent progress to bring residential development, Costco, Starbucks, and a commuter ferry to the former military base.

"Our ports are gateways to global commerce and engines of economic growth" said Senator Menendez. "A modern and efficient freight network helps businesses all over our region get their goods to market. By allowing these businesses to grow, we're creating new employment opportunities throughout New Jersey. I'd like to commend Mayor Davis and the Bayonne City Council for their work on the MOTBY site and their commitment to its redevelopment. Redevelopment projects like this one are a win-win for Bayonne. Good industry brings in good, high-paying jobs that create a tax base that will serve as the backbone of the Bayonne economy for years to come." Senator Menendez said that jobs help people realize "their hopes, dreams, and aspirations." He called the Lincoln Equities plan for MOTBY "a tremendous shot in the arm."

"Smart investments in our ports and infrastructure networks are proven ways to spur economic development, bolster our region's economy, and created jobs," said Senator Booker. "With its strategic location and robust transportation networks, Bayonne is on the path to becoming a thriving logistics hub. I applaud Mayor Davis' innovation and leadership in Bayonne's resurgence and his commitment to moving this great city forward."

"We look forward to working with the City of Bayonne to reclaim this underutilized site, and transform it into an economic powerhouse that will further accelerate the Northern New Jersey economy," said Joel Bergstein, President of Lincoln Equities Group, adding that the new construction will finally allow the site to reach its full economic potential. He said that Lincoln Equities would be "a partner in the economic rebirth" of Bayonne.

Mr. Bergstein said that several vacant, former military buildings dating to World War II would be demolished, because they are "functionally obsolete" and "structurally unsound." He plans to replace them with modern buildings that will be dedicated to warehouse distribution and e-commerce. He estimated that about 750 construction jobs would be created as the new structures are built.

In 2000, MOTBY was given to the city and was declared to be Bayonne's property. For more than a decade, there has been little development on this waterfront parcel.

"Bayonne has had a long history as an industrial city. This project is a great opportunity to restore a part of Bayonne's success and bring it back on the map," said City Council President Sharon Ashe-Nadrowski.

MOTBY has a proud history, originally as a naval base and later repurposed as a U.S. Army base, which closed in 1999. The U.S. Army base was used to ship both troops and equipment during the Persian Gulf War as well as during operations in Somalia and Haiti.

WOLFGANG PUCK'S KITCHEN
Indulge yourselves with a luxurious yet light dessert
By Wolfgang Puck

So many luxurious yet lean desserts start with fresh fruit, which provides great sources of flavor while also being high in fiber, great sources of vitamins, and virtually fat-free; and the natural sweetness of fruit doesn't jolt your system with as much sugar as you'll find in processed treats.

With that in mind, I think souffles make a perfect dessert. My recipe for spectacular-looking, delicious Raspberry Souffles amazingly contains only 127 calories per serving, with just 12 percent of those from fat. And if you sprinkle in just a small amount of semisweet chocolate chips, you'll add only 25 more calories (including 14 fat calories) per serving - which still works out to a modest 19 percent of calories from fat.

As you'll note, the recipe here actually yields four servings, because it becomes difficult to whip the egg whites properly if you make fewer portions. That doesn't create any problems, really, because I know that at least some of you will be making this for the entire family. If the dessert is just for two, however, you can loosely cover a pair of the uncooked souffles by inverting large bowls over them and refrigerating them overnight, to bake the next day.

RASPBERRY AND CHOCOLATE CHIP SOUFFLÉS WITH FRESH RASPBERRY SAUCE
Makes 4 souffles
RASPBERRY SOUFFLÉS:
1-1/2 cups (375 ml) fresh raspberries
3 tablespoons sugar, plus
1/2 tablespoon for coating ramekins
3/4 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon balsamic vinegar

1/2 tablespoon unsalted butter, softened
2 large cage-free egg whites, at room temperature
Pinch of cream of tartar
2 tablespoons semisweet chocolate chips

RASPBERRY SAUCE:
1 cup (250 ml) fresh raspberries
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
For the Raspberry Souffles, in a small saucepan combine half of the raspberries, 1 tablespoon of the sugar, the lemon juice and the vinegar. Bring to a boil over medium heat. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the mixture has a jam-like consistency, about 4 minutes. Strain through a fine-meshed sieve over a heatproof bowl, pressing it through with a rubber spatula. Discard the solids from the sieve. Set aside to cool to room temperature.

Measure out 1/4 cup (60 ml) of this mixture and transfer to a large bowl, leaving the rest in the pan. Set aside.

Position a rack in the lowest level of the oven. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees F. (220 degrees C).

With the butter, coat the insides of four 1/2-cup (125-ml) ramekins. Lightly dust with the 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Place the ramekins on a baking tray.

Divide half of the remaining raspberries for the souffles among the ramekins. Drizzle the raspberry sauce left in the pan evenly over the raspberries in the ramekins.

Using a stand mixer with the wire whip, or a clean mixing bowl with a hand mixer, beat the egg whites at low speed until foamy, about 1 minute. Add the cream of tartar and continue beating 1 minute longer. Increase the speed to medium and, while beating, slowly sprinkle in the remaining 2 tablespoons sugar. Continue beating until the whites form firm peaks that stand up when the beaters are lifted out.

With a wire whisk, gently stir about a third of the egg whites into the reserved 1/4 cup (60 ml) of raspberry sauce until combined. Then, with the whisk, fold in the remaining egg whites. Sprinkle in the chocolate chips and gently fold them in with a rubber spatula. Fold in the remaining reserved whole raspberries.

Spoon the egg white mixture into the prepared ramekins, mounding it in peaks. Bake until well puffed and dark golden, 7 to 10 minutes.

While the souffles are baking, make the Raspberry Sauce. In a small, nonreactive saucepan, combine the raspberries, sugar and lemon juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until the berries have given up their juices, about 3 minutes. Bring to a boil and continue cooking, stirring frequently, until syrupy, about 2 minutes longer. Strain through a fine-mesh sieve over a heatproof bowl, pressing with a rubber spatula and discarding the solids.

As soon as the souffles are done, transfer each ramekin to individual plates and serve immediately. At the table, use a spoon to break open the top of the souffle, spooning the sauce inside.
