Are you game? ABC adds two contests to several returning ones

By Jay Bobbin

Let the games begin — again — with two more new, yet not-so-new, ones added in.

ABC returns to its "Summer Fun & Games" premise as several revivals start new seasons, while fresh takes on other classic television games debut. "Press

Your Luck" and "Card Sharks" premiere Wednesday, June 12, joining the return of the Alec Baldwin-hosted version of "Match Game" on that night. On Sunday, June 9, "Celebrity Family Feud," "The $100,000 Pyramid" and "To Tell the Truth" all are back for new rounds.

"Press Your Luck" is taking a mighty swing with its host, someone unexpected in the same way Baldwin was when "Match Game's" reboot began. Elizabeth Banks, who's been enjoying a busy career on both sides of the camera — particularly with the "Pitch Perfect" movie franchise — becomes one of TV history's few female game-show hosts as she oversees contestants who indeed press their luck while trying to steer clear of the game board's so-called "Whammy" that will relieve them of winnings.

"Card Sharks" also gets a familiar face with Joel McHale ("Community," "The Soup"), who continues the tradition of comedy stars becoming game-show hosts. His well-known brand of sly snark is certain to prove useful as two players use guesswork and card skills in a literal bid to build upon, or lose, the $10,000 "bank" that one of them starts out with.

As with ABC's returning game shows, each of the new additions has a basis in TV's past. "Press Your Luck," redeveloped from the earlier "Second Chance," was a weekday CBS entry (with host Peter Tomarken) in the mid-1980s. "Card Sharks" has had a longer history via various versions and hosts (NBC, 1978-81, Jim Perry; CBS, 1986-89, Bob Eubanks; syndication, 1986-87, Bill Rafferty; syndication, 2001-02, Pat Bullard).

In terms of the series that are back, "Celebrity Family Feud's" fifth season will continue to showcase host Steve Harvey comedically quizzing stars — and, in many cases, their relatives — on the results that a survey says. ABC weekday staple Michael Strahan guides two personalities and their playing partners through guessing categories on "The $100,000 Pyramid" for Season 4, which it also is for Anthony Anderson ("black-ish") in challenging famous panelists to guess which of three people is bound "To Tell the Truth" as the actual person whose story is told.

And if it was surprising initially that TV and movie star Baldwin wanted to revive "Match Game" as both host and executive producer, consider that he's now in his fourth season of encouraging humor-oriented guests to match players' guesses in filling in the blanks of phrases.

What's old is new again, then, as ABC's games are on once more for the warm-weather months.

Elizabeth Banks hosts the game show "Press Your Luck," premiering Wednesday on ABC.

'Carnival Eats'
 a dream job for host Noah Cappe

If there are two skills Noah Cappe will one day take away from Cooking Channel's "Carnival Eats," it's being able to eat anything fried and to talk for extended periods on camera without a script.

"All like that scary stuff that is normally everybody's biggest fear," explains the Canadian-born presenter and actor, "you know, being on stage or having to speak in front of large crowds or not knowing what you're going to say - are the weird things that I love the most. I love when the camera starts rolling and all I know is the vendor's name and what we're making and it's like, let's have fun getting there."

"When people say to me, 'What's your dream job?' I'm like, 'Well, I kind of have it.' I mean, you can eat fried food and travel around and ride rides and play games all day. It's kind of a dream job."

The seventh season of the culinary travel series kicks off Sunday, June 9, and once again finds Cappe venturing across the southern U.S. to sample more of the outside-the-box creations that vendors sell at local, county and state fairs. In the fresh batch of 13 episodes, he hits fairs in Florida, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas, plus a stop in Toronto, to try everything from funnel cakes and German desserts to cajun treats and Mexican dishes.

In Sunday's opener, he's at the Arkansas State Fair in Little Rock, where the Arkansas Slamwich and something dubbed the Stuffed Thanksgiving Taco are on the menu.

"It is exactly what it sounds like," Cappe says of the latter comestible. "I mean, it's in a tortilla and kind of sealed up but lled with all of the classic Thanksgiving elements. You know, the turkey and potatoes and cranberry and all the classics, stuffing. Just hot and delicious and rolled up and sealed in a taco kind of burrito hybrid. It's one of those things that you're like, 'I'm sure I've heard of that before. I'm sure I've had something like that.' But you realize that, no, it feels like you should have done it but it makes a lot more sense when you eat it."

Also in that episode is a visit to the Greater Jacksonville (Fla.) Agricultural Fair, where Cappe munched on deep-fried rice pudding, a bite-size treat made by rolling rice pudding into balls, freezing them, dipping them in batter and dropping them in the fryer.

"By the time that frozen part is done kind of thawing and melting," he says, "it's now hot and warm and gooey in the middle but the outside has been fried up perfect. So that one trick alone, it's amazing how many things you can deep-fry. I mean, we've done deep-fried coffee, deep-fried pina colodas, margaritas. I mean, all kind of crazy things on this show now with that freezing technique."

through to Nicole. Wait to See: Will is given some devastating news about his condition. GENERAL HOSPITAL Ava patiently waited for the right opportunity. Monica gave Drew her blessing. Curtis stayed by Jordan's side. Neil made a house call. Shiloh played both sides of the fence. Kristina pleaded her case. Nina and Sasha enjoyed a mother-daughter lunch. Carly was proud of Michael. Lulu went to Maxie for some advice. Julian suggested Sam would be a good bet. Franco was very confrontational. Nina faced a rude awakening. Anna felt creeped out. Willow had Lulu's full support. Sam propositioned Jason. Scott gave Ava the support she needed. Curtis turned to Laura for help. Anna was bent on confronting Alex. Wait to See: Franco visits Kiki's grave. THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS An emotional week in Genoa City continued with the reading of Neil's will. Rey encouraged Kyle and Lola to take over his lease, to which they readily agreed. The move went awry when their dinner caught fire, but it didn't stop the lovebirds from celebrating their first official night together. Ana and Tessa continued to butt heads while producing a song together. Meanwhile, Mariah faced challenges of her own when her stalker showed up to confront her. Nick hired Rey as head of security for Dark Horse and asked him to keep tabs on Adam as well. As Billy, Kyle and Jack prepared for the launch of Jabot Collective, Ashley alerted them to a copycat site. Wait to See: A dangerous rivalry is reignited.

HOLLYWOOD

By Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Couldn't resist remembering legendary film and singing star Doris Day, hip '60s TV star Peggy Lipton and comedic genius Tim Conway, all of whom passed away in May. Two months after I moved to Hollywood, I was invited to shoot Doris Day when she launched "The Doris Day Show" (1968-1973). CBS situated eight of us photographers behind the Beverly Hills eatery La Scala, while Doris Day did interviews for 20 reporters inside. When Doris saw we were waiting in the dark on cold night, she insisted they send coffee and eats to us ... that's the kind of lady she was. She wed four times, to a trombonist (with whom she had son Terry), a saxophonist, a producer/manager (whose name Terry took to become Terry Melcher) and lastly, the maitre d' of her favorite Carmel restaurant. In 1968 (shortly after her husband Marty died), Terry turned down Charles Manson for a record deal, which made Doris fear Manson might retaliate. He did, by sending his clan to murder Sharon Tate (portrayed by Margo Robbie in Quentin Tarantino's upcoming "Once Upon a Time In Hollywood," with Leonardo DiCaprio and Brad Pitt) and her friends who were living in the house he knew Terry had moved from, just to send him a message. Terry lived in fear until his death in 2004, and Doris confided to friends she was relieved when Manson died in 2017. Two of her greatest achievements were her best actress Oscar nomination for "Pillow Talk" (1959) and her work as an animal activist. She died May 13 at 97 of pneumonia, and requested there be no funeral, memorial service or grave marker for her.  Two days before Doris Day passed, "Mod Squad" star (1968-1973) Peggy Lipton died at 72, due to colon cancer. A year after "Mod Squad," she wed music genius Quincy Jones and quit acting to raise their two daughters, Rashida ("Parks and Recreation") and Kidadada Jones, both actresses. She divorced Quincy in 1990 and returned to acting in "Twin Peaks" and again in 2017 in the sequel. I knew Peggy through her brother, actor Robert Lipton, and from interacting with her at events. She was always shy, but sweet and lovely to everyone.  I knew Tim Conway from rehearsals of "The Carol Burnett Show" that my friend Lyle Waggoner got me into. Tim was nice to everyone, from strangers to stagehands, and constantly made everyone laugh, which made everyone love him. When he heard I'd known Carol since her "Once Upon a Mattress" stage days, he asked a million questions about her and the shop. They really loved each other. He left us at 85 due to hydrocephalus, with a million laughs to remember him by.
