A pre-Batman 'Pennyworth' takes on evildoers in dark EPIX drama

By George Dickie

Jack Bannon stars in "Pennyworth," premiering Sunday on EPIX.

Fans of "Batman" will surely want to check out a series from the makers of "Gotham" that explores the backstory of one of the franchise's secondary characters and debuts this week on EPIX.

In "Pennyworth," an hourlong drama from Danny Cannon and Bruno Heller that premieres Sunday, July 28, Jack Bannon ("Medici") stars as Alfred Pennyworth, Bruce Wayne's future butler and an amiable young man in a dark, foreboding 1962 London, who is just off a stint as a Special Air Service soldier, where he served his country alongside friends Bazza (Hainsley Lloyd Bennett, "Catastrophe") and Dave Boy (Ryan Fletcher, "Outlander").

Taking a job as a nightclub bouncer, he meets and falls for bohemian dancer Esme (Emma Corrin, "The Crown") and makes the acquaintance of American tycoon Thomas Wayne (Ben Aldridge, "Fleabag"), the yet-to-be-born Bruce's father. But when a sniper takes a shot at Wayne and Esme is kidnapped by Bet Sykes (played by British chanteuse Paloma Faith), an operative for the right-wing Raven Society, Alfred and his pals must take action to rectify both situations.

"This is really the origin story of that Pennyworth character ...," Heller explained to a recent gathering of journalists in Pasadena, Calif. "And it's really the chance to make him the center of a story and explain that journey. How did he get from being a young SAS soldier to being a butler in America? And it also gives us a chance to create a real world around him, a world in England that fits the whole DC universe. ... Jack and these guys here have created a world as we're going. So, it's surprising to all of us the depth and range that you can go to with this character."

Indeed, while Bannon says he had a fair amount of latitude in creating the young Pennyworth, that also came with some responsibility to remain reasonably faithful to the DC Comics character that fans know.

"There is a huge amount of pressure," the actor says, "and obviously some incredible people have played him later on in life, but ... what takes the pressure off is that we've never seen him this age. ... You know, the world that Bruno's created is a great playground for us to muck about in. And we're sort of rewriting little bits and changing little bits and having fun with it. So that alleviates the pressure."

Family Fun on Broadway Set for National Night Out on Tuesday, August 6

Mayor Jimmy Davis and Police Chief Robert Geisler announced that Bayonne will participate in the 36th annual National Night Out on Tuesday, August 6, from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

The event will feature food and family fun on Broadway between 21st Street and 23rd Street. The event is being organized by the Bayonne Police Department and the Bayonne Urban Enterprise Zone/Special Improvement District. National Night Out is a nationwide event that is designed to bring communities and police departments together for the fight against crime.

Mayor Davis said, "National Night Out is a great event that promotes safer neighborhoods and police-community partnerships across America. I would like to invite the people of Bayonne to join with the Bayonne Police Department on National Night Out, and to work with the police against crime throughout the year."

Police Chief Geisler said, "This event presents a great opportunity for the Bayonne Police Department to reach out to the community. Our job is to provide the highest level of service to the people of Bayonne. We look forward to seeing our residents and having a good time together at National Night Out on August 6."

National Night Out in Bayonne will feature free children's rides, free popcorn, various give-away items, soft drinks, snacks, music by DJ Pete Amadeo, and displays from agencies and organizations. No goods or services are allowed to be sold at the event.

Participating agencies include the Bayonne Police Department, the Bayonne Urban Enterprise Zone/Special Improvement District, the Bayonne Department of Public Works, the Bayonne Housing Authority, the Hudson County Sheriff's Office, McCabe Ambulance, and the Bayonne Fire Department. The Bayonne Police Explorers will help the Police Department at the event. Various public safety agencies will have vehicles at the event.

Local private sector sponsors of National Night Out include BCB Community Bank, Kayco (Kedem/Royal Wines), Rainforest Distributors (beverage distribution), and other local businesses. Several non-profit organizations will also participate in the event.

National Night Out began in 1984. It has grown to include 38 million people and more than 16,000 communities from all fifty American states, U.S. territories, Canadian cities, and military bases worldwide.

TV PIPELINE

By Jay Bobbin

Q: What happened to "The Red Line"? It just disappeared. — Alice Larson, DeLand, Fla.

A: CBS intended the Noah Wyle-starring drama to be a limited "event" series, so all of its eight produced episodes aired over consecutive Sundays in April and May, two episodes per night. The network did have an option to continue the franchise, presumably with a different story, but it decided not to exercise that despite the considerable producing cred of Greg Berlanti and Ava DuVernay. The program's less-than-strong ratings undoubtedly were a big factor.

Noah Wyle

Q: It's interesting to see Mischa Barton as part of the cast of "The Hills: New Beginnings," and it made me think that I haven't seen her do much acting lately. What has she been doing professionally? — Amber Kay, via e-mail

A: The past several years largely have been a combination of stage work, independent films and "Dancing With the Stars" for her. Her movies have leaned largely toward horror and suspense, by her professed preference, with such titles as "The Basement" and "Ouija House" included; thanks to her residual fame from the series "The O.C." (which inspired MTV to develop both "Laguna Beach: The Real Orange County" and "The Hills"), the makers of such relatively small films undoubtedly have been happy to have Barton both present and promotable. Barton also had the role of Shelby in a production of "Steel Magnolias" that toured Ireland and marked the first time she had done live theater in a while. And in 2016, she competed in the spring season of ABC's "Dancing With the Stars," staying in the contest for a month before she and partner Artem Chigvintsev were eliminated.

Q: I've heard that Demi Moore was on "General Hospital." If so, when, and who did she play? — Kate McDonald, Leavittsburg, Ohio

A: Moore's movie career was very young, with only two films to its credit (including "Parasite"), when she joined the venerable ABC serial in 1982 as investigative journalist Jackie Templeton. She didn't stay very long, leaving the show the next year — and seeing her film value explode shortly thereafter, thanks to such pictures as "Blame It on Rio" and "No Small Affair," but especially "St. Elmo's Fire" and "About Last Night ..."

Q: On the old "Batman" series, was the Batmobile an actual working car, or was it just a visual effect? — Kim Derwin, via e-mail

A: Oh, it was (and is) a real vehicle ... and we can say that firsthand, having stood next to it on one memorable occasion. Legendary car customizer George Barris fashioned the Caped Crusader's "wheels" out of a Lincoln Futura prototype that had been seen in its original form in the 1959 Debbie Reynolds-Glenn Ford movie "It Started With a Kiss." Because a Batmobile was needed almost immediately when ABC ordered the series in the mid-1960s, Barris decided to transform the Futura (which he had purchased) rather than start from scratch. He kept ownership of the car during production, with 20th Century Fox Television paying him a leasing fee for its use, but it has been sold a couple of times over the past decade. The last time was a real deal, since it included the Batcycle, too. ("Um, sweetheart, I've put a couple of things in the garage ...")

OUTDOOR PATIO

La Guardiola

by Lisa Sofranko

With the weather getting warmer, it's nice to have a beautiful place to retreat to for delicious food. If you have yet to find where that special place is for you, look no further; La Guardiola is a gourmet pizzeria and bistro with a spacious and comfortable dining area to fit all of your favorite people in. With brick walls, cozy ambiance, and delicious food, you will now feel absolutely at home. Also, shown above is their outdoor patio for your privacy during those hot summer nights. La Guardiola is conveniently located at 819 Broadway in Bayonne (between 37th and 38th Streets), in Bayonne.

Owner Anthony Bonetti is pleased to be of service to his customers. His food is nothing short of "grandma's secret recipe" good!

Even if you are more accustomed to ordering in, La Guardiola is still a great choice. Whether you are venturing out, or staying home, help yourself to the fabulous menu items at La Guardiola. Let's start with pizza. If you want a gourmet pizza, perhaps Quattro Formaggi is your style - with mozzarella, ricotta, provolone, and gornonzola cheeses on it. Instead, try a barbecue chicken pizza, a buffalo chicken pizza, a chicken bruschetta pie, a scevello (mozzarella, fresh tomatoes, garlic, marinara sauce, and fresh basil), or many other enticing options.

Of course, for all of you classic lovers, you can enjoy an incredibly tasty traditional pizza as well! For all of you rebels, no worries! La Guardiola allows you to create you own so you can become a "pizza chef!"

If you're looking for something other than pizza, perhaps a yummy calzone or a satisfying salad is more your forte. Of course, we can't forget the outstanding appetizers on the menu! Grilled calamari, clams in the style you choose, and so much more! Is your mouth watering yet?

Lunch options include pressed paninis, original focaccia sandwiches, and hot hero sandwiches. Add a homemade soup to that, which is prepared daily, to really bring it all together.

For a larger entree, check out the stupendous gourmet pastas, traditional pastas, and classic dishes such as chicken, veal, or shrimp piccata or scarpariello. These classic dishes are served with pasta or vegetables and a soup or salad. What a deal!

They also offer amazing fish entrees at reasonable prices. If you order one of these great choices (or of course, their surprising daily specials), don't forget the remarkable side dishes you can compliment them with.

For anyone planning on hosting a party, keep in mind that La Guardiola does catering for all occasions. Give a call to 201-823-3399 for any questions, or stop in to see Anthony (and more importantly, his menu) any time from Monday - Thursday 11 a.m. - 9 p.m., or Fridays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. - 10 p.m. Come see what a family business can do and before you know it, you'll be family too! Ciao!

HOLLYWOOD — "Game of Thrones" stars have moved on. Richard Madden, who scored big as Elton John's lover in "Rocketman," is up next in Sam Mendes' "1917," with Benedict Cumberbatch and Colin Firth. Though the 33-year-old Scotsman played a gay man in "Rocketman," he prefers not to discuss his private life and has been dogged by the press, who think his relationship with his "out" gay actor roommate and constant companion, 25-year-old Brandon Flynn (who recurred in HBO's "True Detective" and the Netflix series "13 Reasons Why"), are more than "just friends."

Emilia Clarke stars with Henry Golding and Emma Thompson in "Last Christmas" (in theaters Nov. 8) and "Above Suspicion," with Jack Huston. Sophie Turner, late of "Dark Phoenix," who recently became Mrs. Joe Jonas (of the Jonas Brothers), stars in "Broken Soldier," with Ray Liotta and Mark Kassen. Nikolaj Coster-Waldau has made two films in his native Scandinavia: "Suicide Tourist" and "Notat." Peter Dinklage is next in the animated feature "The Croods 2" (out Sept. 8, 2020).

Kit Harington, who came away from "Thrones" as the biggest star, must have had the greatest pressure, because he used his break to enter a treatment center to work on personal issues. Could those "issues" be because of his "Game of Thrones" co-star Rose Leslie, whom he wed in "Slumdog Millionaire" Oscar-winning director Danny Boyle, who also directed the current Beatles songfest "Yesterday," is touting Robert Pattinson to become 007 after Daniel Craig completes his second of the two current Bond films. Problem is that Pattinson just signed to play Batman, and Boyle quit directing the current Bond films due to creative differences.

George Clooney, currently in the Hulu series "Catch 22," has signed with Netflix to direct and star in the post-apocalyptic film "Good Morning, Midnight," about a lonely arctic scientist who tries to make contact with the crew of a spacecraft as it returns to Earth.

The original Agatha Christie hit "Death on the Nile" (1978) starred Peter Ustinov (as Hercule Poirot), Maggie Smith, Angela Lansbury, Bette Davis, Mia Farrow, David Niven and George Kennedy, but the remake stars only director Kenneth Branagh (as Poirot), with Armie Hammer, Ryan Murphy and Netflix have united to bring the Tony Award-winning cast of the 50th anniversary production of "The Boys in the Band" — starring Jim Parsons, Zachary Quinto, Andrew Rannells and Matt Bomer — to movie and TV screens. Spoiler alert: It has no band and is not a musical, but they're all very funny and light ... in their loafers!

The CW bids 'Jane the Virgin' and 'iZombie' farewell

By Jay Bobbin

It's rare for one network to lose a number of its signature shows in a relatively short span of time.

The CW recently said goodbye to "Crazy Ex-Girlfriend," and the coming TV season will see the ends of "Supernatural" — after what will be 15 years — and "Arrow," after eight. Another pair of CW stalwarts is about to exit: "Jane the Virgin" wraps up its five-year run at exactly the 100-episode mark Wednesday, July 31, and "iZombie" also signs off after five seasons Thursday, Aug. 1.

Though a proposed "Jane the Novela" spin-off isn't going forward, "Jane the Virgin" star Gina Rodriguez reflects, "I know how blessed I am for being on a show that has been (made) of incredible writing from the first episode to the last ... just thorough, smart, intelligent, witty commentary without judgment."

Rodriguez credits "Jane the Virgin" Jennie Snyder Urman with teaching her "a lot about myself, and a lot about what I can do with my craft. When you go and you do a film (as Rodriguez did recently with 'Miss Bala') and you have a short amount of time, and you don't have as much voice to say your opinion, and you're not helping write it, you have to come full with whatever you've got. And I've been training for years to go and do that."

For all of the "Jane the Virgin" cast members, Rodriguez notes the show has been "our breakout, every single one of us. The knowledge of how hard it was to get to that we love, (it) just has never gone away. We know how lucky we are to be able to complete a show and have a vision for that completion. We're not just dragging it on or trying to tie it up real quick because we've got to end it."

As she winds down her time as "iZombie's" Liv — she who consumes the brains of the deceased to investigate their respective deaths — New Zealand native Rose McIver reasons that the character has been "a champion of the outsider and a person who feels like a misfit, and I
